Laura Ashley

The Welsh textile design company, now known worldwide as Laura Ashley, was founded by Bernard Ashley and his wife Laura. Laura began designing napkins, table mats and tea towels whilst working as a secretary, before getting inspired at a Women's Institute display and starting to create women's headscarves in 1953. Luckily for Laura, her business skyrocketed after Audrey Hepburn was spotted wearing one of her scarves in the film 'Roman Holiday' with Gregory Peck.View works.

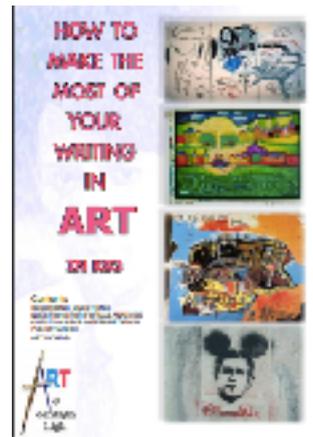

Peiriant Gwnïo Singer / Singer Sewing Machine

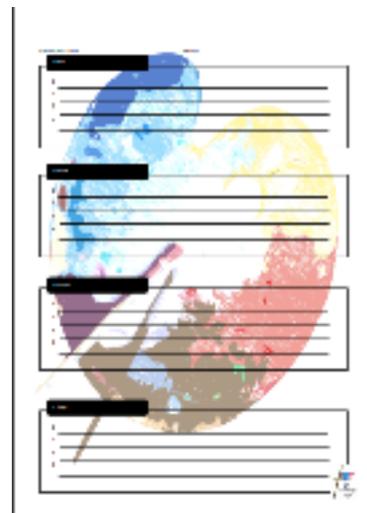

Luned Rhys Parri's work is always filled with warmth and humour. While making us smile, and while creating that warm glow inside, she is deft and observant enough to catch the telling details which allow us into her characters' world: A world that is uniquely Welsh, and may be fast disappearing. Her benevolent whimsy is shot through with a keen awareness of the passing of time, and the fragility of the things which once lost or squandered, can never be retrieved. She reminds us to look after the small things, and to remember.

She evokes quintessential everyday occurrences in Wales in her wonderful, quirky, three-dimensional images. Often based on memory of the countryside and towns of Wales in her childhood, Luned loves handling simple materials such as tinfoil, cardboard, paper and wire - these are combined with a painterly surface to create a unique image of tender wit and humour.

*(TECHNIQUES) formal elements

The Formal Elements are the parts used to make a piece of artwork. The art elements are line, shape, form, tone, texture, pattern, colour and composition. They are often used together, and how they are organised in a piece of art determines what the finished piece will look like.
